

Demands Advanced For Expulsion of Any 'Incompetent'

Report On Pearl Harbor Brings Them Quickly

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Angry demands came from Congress members today for the expulsion of any "incompetents" holding responsible position in the war effort and for courts martial to mete out punishment on those responsible for the debacle of Pearl Harbor.

A furor of rare bitterness on both sides of Capitol hill followed the weekend report of a presidential investigating commission, blaming non-cooperation and "dereliction of duty" by Hawaii area commanders of the army and navy for success of the Japanese sneak attack on the great Pacific naval base.

Many senators and representatives asserted that the commission's conclusions pointed to a pressing need for a super-command with control over the operations of both armed forces.

Although the investigating commission decided that the secretaries of state, war and navy as well as the army chief of staff and chief of naval operations had "fulfilled their obligations," some Congress members professed to find fault with provisions made here for Hawaii's defense.

The five-man commission, headed by Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts of the Supreme Court, reported to President Roosevelt that "errors of judgment" by Lieut. Gen. Walter C. Short, commander of the army's Hawaiian Department, and Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, commander of the Pacific fleet and commander in chief of the whole fleet, "were the effective causes for the success of the attack."

It concluded that the two officers had shown "a lack of appreciation of the responsibilities vested in them," especially since each had been warned by his superiors in Washington that relations with Japan were critical. Both were relieved of their commands soon after the attack, pending the outcome of the investigation.

No immediate word of contemplated action came from the White House or the Army and Navy Departments. The departments could order Short and Kimmel to face a court martial, or President Roosevelt could dismiss them from the service for "dereliction of duty." They could appeal to a court martial if the chief executive took that course.

Action Not Determined

Asked what action was likely now, presidential secretary Stephen Early told reporters: "I don't know what action there is to be taken."

On the question of a court martial, he said it was his recollection that any general officer might request one if he thought he had a case. Responding to a remark that the president might dismiss officers if he felt it justified, Early said he did not think "it is done that way."

The secretary of war or navy could order a court martial by the direction of the president, he said, but the phrase "by the direction of the president," is only a formality.

Early said that Mr. Roosevelt, to his knowledge, had not yet discussed the Roberts report with his war and navy secretaries.

The presidential secretary suggested that the people who know

Clubs of B. and P. W. Assist Defense Moves

Board Approves Bonds Purchase In Meeting Here

The state board of the Business and Professional Women's Federation, meeting in a business session at Hotel Bothwell Sunday morning, agreed to follow a recommendation of the state president, Miss Christine Hauschild, to simplify the year's program, and eliminate all non-essentials. This refers to all unnecessary dinner meetings, decorations, favors, and those things that can be omitted, at the same time preserving the fundamentals and ideals on which the federation is based.

Miss Hauschild also urged all clubs to have their leaders provide adequate time for effective participation in war activities.

Approve Buying Bonds

The board approved the purchase of Defense Bonds, taking a certain percent of two state funds, accumulated for club purposes. It was also recommended that the local clubs also purchase bonds if funds provide, rather than have any money not being used.

Announcement was made that National Business and Professional Women's week will be October 11 to 17.

The state convention will be in St. Louis April 18 to 19, and the regional convention in St. Louis, October 23 to 25. Missouri has an opportunity of entertaining the regional convention only once in every twelve years.

One New Club Was Added to the Federation

But One Member Absent

Attending the board meeting, which opened Saturday, were all members with the exception of one. Those present were: Miss Margaret Hickey, St. Louis, national vice-president and a state director; Miss Christine Hauschild, Columbia, president; Miss Lillian Sagorske, St. Louis, first vice-president; Miss Hazel Palmer, Sedalia, second vice-president; Miss Frances Tapp, Maryville, third vice-president; Miss Elizabeth Frogge, Memphis, representative.

Billions For Sea Power In A Naval Bill

Largest Outlay Ever To Congress For Supremacy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Congress received today a $17,722,565,474 appropriations bill, largest in the nations history, to finance the navy's war objective of attaining unquestioned supremacy above and on the seas through a gigantic ship and plane building program.

In sending the huge outlay proposed to the house for debate the appropriations committee dealt in superlatives — "stupendous" and "staggering"—to describe its aims, but expressed full confidence in their accomplishments "with unbelievable dispatch."

An accompanying 313-page transcript of testimony before the committee by Secretary of Navy Knox and high ranking naval officials disclosed their conviction that 1942 would prove the critical year in the battle for victory.

"If we can hold our own, and even advance a little, then we will be ready for whatever the expanded production will enable us to do in 1943 and 1944," said Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the fleet.

Purpose Outlined

Just what that expanded production is intended to "enable us to do" was laid down later by Admiral H. R. Stark, chief of naval operations, in a terse, overall, summation of the navy's hopes and plans to:

1. Increase its power to the point of unchallengeable supremacy wherever it may operate.

2. Gain command of the sea by destruction of the enemies' seagoing forces.

3. Cooperate with our own military forces and with the naval and military forces of our allies.

4. Destroy or shut off the enemy's commerce in order to effect economic strangulation, thereby promoting disaffection inside his borders.

The omnibus measure carried an additional $4,292,225,500 in new appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30 and $13,430,339,974 for the year beginning July 1. On top of vast sums already voted for this year, it would swell the 24-month navy total to $24,751,758,471. It dwarfed even the previous record appropriation of more than $12,500,000,000 for army planes which was passed by the house only last week.

Construct New Ships

Close to 50 per cent of the total appropriation will go to construct 950,000 tons of warships plus 500 small craft and 1,799 miscellaneous naval vessels such as patrol boats and swift-ranging, death-dealing torpedo boats which already have been authorized by Congress.

A gauge of how much the expansion will add to the punch of Uncle Sam's two-ocean fleet, Rear Admiral W. H. Blandy, chief of the bureau of ordnance, told the committee that 150,000 tons authorized less than a month ago would permit construction of two aircraft carriers, two light cruisers, 16 destroyers and 23 submarines.

Stark called for a 24-hour day and a seven day week in both government and private ship-building yards, and said that the navy had begun a "worker morale" program to increase individual and group effort.

The committee summed up that phrase of the program with these words: "This is a stupendous program, but the committee is assured that it can be accomplished with unbelievable dispatch through the provision of additional facilities, overtime, extra shifts, and acceleration generally."

Holiday Like Excitement In Completing Democrat-Capital's Stage Kitchen

Mrs. George Thurn checks equipment and ample supplies before opening of Cooking School on Tuesday, Jan. 27, 1.30 p. m.

The Liberty Theater needs only a glittering tree to complete the night-before-Christmas spirit. The stir of excitement, the steady arrival of mysterious packages, the stocks of good foods and the growing heaps of gifts, all fit the holiday picture.

Every homemaker in the community seems to know the hospitable doors are swinging wide tomorrow to welcome eager throngs to the long-awaited free Cooking School, which is ready with four entertaining programs Tuesday

Mrs. Thurn through Friday afternoon as a service to community homemakers from the Democrat-Capital.

Sharing equally in the long and thoughtful plans to make this profitable household arts course available to the community is a group of forward-looking merchants and manufacturers whose names are familiar to the readers of this paper. These progressive firms want buyers to become better acquainted with the uniform service they are ready to give throughout the year. They are inviting Cooking School guests to drop into their stores frequently to look around—perhaps to be surprised by today's offerings.

The Democrat-Capital agrees that the wise buyer is the informed buyer. The completely-equipped kitchen in the Liberty Theater indicates that these cooperating firms have given time and thought to assembling displays

Call For Food To Beat Hitler

Wickard Appeals To Agriculture For Patriotism

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard called on farmers today to make patriotism rather than prices their big motive for participating in agriculture's war-time job of producing abundant food.

"Producing foods for our own immediate use in warfare, as well as for use of our allies, summons every participant to a greater unselfish effort."

"There can be no question," the secretary added, "of making price the chief incentive. First among the driving forces is awareness of the nation's danger and of the fact that the ultimate reward is victory or nothing."

This call for patriotic effort was made in Secretary Wickard's annual report to President Roosevelt. Much of the document dwelt on the question of farm prices, a subject now under consideration by Congress in connection with price control legislation.

As for farm prices, he said he continued to adhere to the parity principle for farm prices first established in the AAA Act of 1933. (Parity is a price which theoretically would give farmers the same return in terms of purchasing power, which they received in the base years 1909-1914.)

Given Full Support

"Efforts to push prices above parity," the report said, "may endanger the parity principle itself. The national farm program, with its commodity loans and its parity conservation payments, has had the full support up to now of the general public and of consumers. This is because it has been fair."

The secretary warned that efforts to raise farm prices out of

Lynching To Bring Inquiry

Negro Seized By Mob At Sikeston And Body Burned

SIKESTON, Mo., Jan. 26.—(AP)—A grand jury investigation into the lynching Sunday morning of a Negro suspected of attempted rape of a soldier's wife will be held "just as quickly as we are ready for it," David Blanton, 33-year-old prosecuting attorney of Scott county declared today as he questioned a number of persons in connection with the first mob action in the state in eight years.

Circuit Judge J. C. McDowell of Charleston, informed Blanton he would call a grand jury when the prosecutor has completed his inquiry and Coroner Clyde Poe, who dropped plans for an inquest, is in full accord with Blanton's action.

"It is my opinion," said Blanton, "we can better serve the public by making a vigorous investigation to find out just what happened and turn our findings over to a grand jury." He did not offer an opinion when the jury would be called.

Deputies On Patrol

State police and deputy sheriffs continued to patrol this agricultural center today as a precaution against new violence which they feared might break out at any time. They admitted the situation is "extremely tense."

The Negro was identified by officers as Cleo Wright, 30, an ex-convict, Chief Harold Wallace said the Negro admitted he stabbed and seriously wounded Mrs. Dillard Sturgeon, wife of an army sergeant early Sunday morning after breaking into the Sturgeon home.

Wallace said Wright was shot three times by Patrolman Hess Perrigan after he had stabbed the officer in the face while being taken to jail.

Sgt. Sturgeon, notified yesterday of the incident, arrived here by plane today. The city of Sikeston contributed $50 toward his expenses in making the trip

Seeking Form Of New Taxation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—A month's intensive study has convinced most congressional fiscal experts that the bulk of a proposed $9,000,000,000 addition to federal revenues will have to be raised by some new form of taxation, Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Finance committee said today.

The chief problem now, George said, was to find a form of new taxation which would yield a substantial share of the $7,000,000,000 in general taxes called for in President Roosevelt's budget. Consideration will be given later to a proposed $2,000,000,000 addition to Social Security revenues.

"We have found," George said, "that we can't depend on the individual and corporation income tax to yield the major share of the additional levies. We are going to have to get a substantial part of them from some form of taxation which the federal government is not now trying."

He then mentioned the possibility of sales taxes, payroll taxes or some other method.

British Sink Four More Subs

LONDON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Four more axis ships have been sunk in the Mediterranean by British submarines, the admiralty announced today.

The ships sunk, a communiqué said, were two large, fully-laden tankers, one medium-sized transport and the Italian salvage vessel Rampino.

Armed Forces Of Americans Reach Ireland

Is The First Sizeable Force To British Isles

A PORT IN NORTHERN IRELAND, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The second AEF arrived in Northern Ireland today, less than two months after the United States went to war with Germany and Italy.

The prompt arrival of this first contingent of United States Army combat troops, in striking contrast to the later arrival of their counterparts of the first AEF, nearly a quarter of a century before, greatly impressed the British.

Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle, the commander of the disembarking troops, stepped ashore first and was warmly welcomed by British officials and United States Army officers.

A band broke into the strains of "America" as he reached the end of the gangplank.

A speech of welcome was delivered by Sir Archibald Sinclair, British air minister, after the troops had formed ranks in front of a flag-draped shed.

Military censors prevented identification of the units in the new American Expeditionary Force or publication of their exact numbers.

The ships steamed slowly into this port as a large group of American and British army officers and journalists, stood waiting, straining their eyes to catch the first glimpse of the Yanks lined against the deck railings.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Arrival of American army forces in Northern Ireland was announced today by Secretary of War Stimson.

Major General Russell P. Hartle is in command, it was announced, but the size of the force and other details were withheld. Specifically withheld were designations of the units, their composition and strength, the ports of embarkation and dates of sailing.

The force was the first to reach the British Isles since the war started aside from groups of technicians and staff officers, officials indicated.

Gen. Hartle Commands

The text of the war department's communiqué, No. 77: "1. Northern Ireland: "The Secretary of War announces the arrival in Northern Ireland of United States army forces under the command of Major General Russell P. Hartle.

"The Secretary of War declined to make public the destination of the units, their composition and strength, nor would he divulge the ports of embarkation, dates of sailing, or other details of the movement from the United States.

"2. There is nothing to report from other areas.

General Hartle, 52, recently was commander of the 34th Infantry division at Camp Blalaine, Louisiana, and is among the youngest officers to hold the rank of major general.

His army service of more than 31 years includes service in France in the World War and tours in duty in the Philippines and Puerto Rico. He is a native of Chevsville, Md., and a 1910 graduate of the University of Maryland.

Gen. MacArthur Celebrates Birthday At Battle Front

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur, the jaunty beau sabreur of the already historic Philippines campaign, celebrated his sixty-second birthday today in the thick of the fighting on a crucial war front.

His personality, marital spirit and record as a soldier make it evident that he would prefer no finer setting for the occasion.

MacArthur and his indomitable little army of American and Filipino troops made the birthday anniversary a doubly auspicious event by registering a spectacular victory yesterday in a counter-attack which shattered the lines of a heavily superior enemy.

The war department, normally restrained in its language, used the words "smashing success" to hail the MacArthur triumph which further dislocated the Japanese timetable for conquest in the south Pacific.

Over Score On Ore Ship Sunk Unreported

Is Torpedoed Off Atlantic Coast On Saturday

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 26.—(AP)—An axis undersea raider attacked the American ore carrier, Venore, off the North Carolina coast late Friday and 22 members of the crew are unaccounted for, the Fifth Naval District announced today.

Twenty-one members of the crew were brought ashore last night at Norfolk.

The 8,016-ton ship owned by the Ore Steamship company, was hit at least twice by torpedoes Friday and it sank in the Atlantic Saturday morning, the navy said.

The crew members said the submarine fired one shell at the ship which struck it about midship on the port side. A few minutes later a torpedo crashed into her port side.

Three life boats were launched, one of them containing the 21 men who were picked up by another ship 38 hours later.

Phillip Gonsalves, able bodied seaman, Baltimore, Md., said that he was in the crew's nest when "a shell hit the ship on the port side about amidship. 'I slid down the rigging to the deck.'"

After the torpedo struck the ship a few minutes later, Gonsalves said, "the captain said to order the men not to lower the life boats because the ship was running at full speed. But when I went to give the order, I found that three boats already had been launched."

Eighth Vessel Attacked

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The Navy Department announced today that the 8,016-ton ore carrier Venore was torpedoed twice and sunk off the Atlantic coast last Saturday morning.

The vessel, owned by the Ore Steamship company of New York, was the seventh sunk and the eighth attacked by enemy submarines along the Atlantic seaboard in the past two weeks. One ship of the eight attacked was only damaged.

First word of the assault on the Venore came, the Navy Department related, when her radio operator flashed a distress call and the ship's position at 11:47 p.m. CST Saturday. The call for help said in part:

"Two crashes so far. Will keep informed. Think swimming soon."

Two minutes later a second message came through. It said: "Torpedoed twice. Ship still afloat, but listing badly. Captain requests assistance immediately."

Then the last message crackled out:

"Can not stay afloat much longer."

That was heard at 12:22 a.m. Ships and shore stations again endeavored to contact the Venore by radio, but without results.

Apparently there was no delay in getting rescue operations under way.

By Sea and Air Action On foe Is Continued

BY CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH Associated Press War Editor

United States and Dutch sea and air forces, locked in a great, running battle with a Japanese invasion armada in the strait of Macassar, have sunk or damaged at least 27 transports and warships in the four days of fighting and may have shattered an attempt to invade Java, the heart of the United Nations defense in the southwest Pacific.

The next few days will tell in what strength if any the Japanese armada was able to negotiate the narrow shortcut to the inner arc of the Netherlands East Indies.

The Japanese, however, won at least one foothold on this sea road to Java—the Dutch oil port of Balikpapan, on the strait-side of the island of Borneo, but the size of the invasion fleet indicated that Tokyo was shooting for higher stakes to the south.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The war department reported today that seven American bombers, participating in the January 24-25 attack on a Japanese convoy on Macassar Straits, sank an enemy transport, set fire to another and shot down five enemy planes, and returned to their base undamaged.

On Luzon Island in the Philippines, the department said, fighting on Batan Peninsula was confined to relatively unimportant skirmishes on the west coast and in the vicinity of Subic bay.

Delayed reports received by the department from the western Pacific war theater disclosed that the city of Cebu on the island of the same name in the center of the Philippine Archipelago, was the object of an intensive air raid by 18 enemy bombers January 21.

One small boat was sunk in Cebu harbor, but no other serious damage was reported.

Tanker Downed By Bombers

The department also reported that the large Japanese tanker set afire by American bombers January 20 off Jolo ultimately sank.

The text of the department's communiqué, number 76 of the war, based on reports received up to 8:30 a. m. CST today:

Bombers of U. S. Sink Transport and Down Five Planes

resses participated in the attack of January 24 and 25 on the Japanese convoy in Macassar Straits, sinking one enemy transport and setting fire to another. A formation of Japanese fighters attacked the American bombers. Five enemy planes were shot down. All of our bombers returned to their bases undamaged.

"3. There is nothing to report from other areas."

The successes in the Macassar Strait reported for American bombers came as the united allied command in the southwest Pacific also reported further damage against the big enemy convoy fleet first reported hit Friday.

In clashing sea-and-air action that was understood to be continuing relentlessly, the fighting ships of the U. S. Asiatic fleet already have sent seven enemy vessels to the bottom while Dutch and American bombers accounted for at least another three, and a Dutch sub got one, and five more sinkings were listed as probable.

Moreover, the navy department here reported heavy damage to convoys vessels still afloat and their escorting warships. The supreme command of the United Nations in the southern Pacific placed the number of ships damaged by air and sea action at a minimum of 17.

"The losses inflicted on this Japanese convoy," said the United Nations command, "are the heaviest the enemy has suffered in any single operations since the war began."

The exact extent of the havoc inflicted on the hostile fleet was left in doubt—perhaps for military reasons—because the week-end communiques issued here and in the south Pacific were not always too specific in designating the arm or the nation responsible for the successes.

How Battle Developed

The battle, as the communiques recounted it, developed in this way:

Friday—Dutch heavy bombers and dive bomber fighters pounced on strong force of Japanese warships and transport train, scoring a dozen direct, crippling hits on eight enemy ships.

U. S. destroyers followed up with smashing night attack, using both their torpedo tubes and gun batteries to score numerous hits. One large enemy ship was blown out of the water, another was sunk and a third left listing heavily.

Saturday—Dutch and U. S. army bombers returned to the assault with notable success. They got credit for two known sinkings, the severe damaging of two more enemy vessels and a direct hit on a Jap destroyer.

Sunday—U. S. Cruisers and destroyers again hammer the enemy invasion fleet, sending five more Jap transports to the bottom and claiming the probable sinking of a sixth.

Monday—American flying fortresses sunk a large Japanese transport and scored a direct hit on a cruiser. Dutch planes scored four direct hits on two Japanese cruisers and one transport. United States naval forces scored five torpedo hits on the Japanese flotilla, and inflicted other damage by gunfire. Three enemy planes were downed. A Netherlands submarine sank one enemy destroyer and scored a torpedo hit on a destroyer.

Exact Growing Toll

BATAVIA, N. E. I., Jan. 26.—(P)—American flying fortresses, Dutch bombers and submarines and United States cruisers and destroyers exacted a growing toll today as they smashed repeatedly in the battle of Macassar Straits at large Japanese naval and transport formations.

A compilation of communiques showed the United Nations forces, working on a coordinated schedule to defend the approaches to Java, nerve center of the Dutch East Indies, had sunk at least 10 Japanese ships and damaged at least 21 others with bombs, torpedoes and shells since Friday.

The Japanese already had forced landings at Batik Papan, Borneo oil port on the west side of the strait within 500 miles of the Dutch naval base of Soerabaja, and at Kendari on the Celebes, the sprawling island which flanks the strait on the east.

United States naval forces twice struck in the narrow 90-mile strait. A communique of the United Nations headquarters of Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, said an attack by United States destroyers Friday night resulted in the sinking of one transport and probable sinking of another. (A navy department announcement in Washington listed two sinkings and a probable sinking.)

Praise To MacArthur

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(P)—Senator Thomas (D-Utah) said resourcefulness in defending the Philippines had never been surpassed by a military commander. Speaking on MacArthur's 62nd birthday anniversary, Thomas said:

"Seldom in all history has a military leader faced such insuperable odds. Never has a commander or his troops met such a situation with greater and cooler courage; never with more resourceful or brilliant action."

Thomas outlined briefly the state of preparedness of troops in the Philippines when the Japanese attacked, and pointed out that "The Japanese initially gained overwhelming air superiority, then supremacy while they enjoyed freedom of the sea lanes."

Greetings From President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—(P)—President Roosevelt cabled birthday greetings today to General Douglas MacArthur, 62-year old commander of the American and Filipino troops battling the invading Japanese on Luzon Island, and praised the "magnificent stand" being made.

from the west coast where he is stationed.

Mrs. Sturgeon's condition today was described at the Sikeston general hospital as "very grave." She suffered a knife wound in the abdomen. Patrolman Hess' condition, however, is not dangerous.

Blanton said he and highway troopers, climbing to the steps of the city hall when the crowd assembled, pleaded with them to disperse and let the law take its course. He was hit in the stomach as the crowd surged forward but was not badly hurt.

Saw "Familiar Faces"

"I saw several faces in the crowd which were familiar," said the prosecutor, "but I did not definitely identify anyone, however, I did see one man who I recognized as a relative of Mrs. Sturgeon, frantically appealing at the top of his voice with the crowd not to carry out its threat." He said local men have reported to him that at least 100 of those in the mob were from out of town.

The crowd was at first persuaded to disperse but it soon reassembled and stormed the jail, overpowering officers.

The leaders dragged the bullet wounded Negro outside, stuffed him at first into the trunk of a motor car and later removed him, fastening one foot in the bumper of the car. The body was dragged through several blocks in what is known as sunset addition, populated chiefly by Negroes, after which it was loosed in front of a Negro church, drenched in gasoline and ignited.

"In my opinion," said Blanton, "Good work of the state highway patrol probably prevented more serious trouble by constantly patrolling the city after the lynching."

The body of the Negro was left on the street for nearly an hour before being picked up by a city street department truck and taken to the morgue.

An official of the cotton oil mill where Wright was employed, said the mill was closed today because less than a dozen of the crew of at least 60 negroes employed there, had reported for duty. Most of the negro employees had left town, that official said he learned.

Obedied Traffic Laws

SIKESTON, Mo., Jan. 26.—(P)—The unidentified driver of an automobile dragging the body of a negro which was later drenched with gasoline and burned here Sunday, carefully observed traffic laws while moving through the business district. The driver brought his car to a full stop at two stop signs.

Gvornor Offers Aid

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 26.—(P)—Gov. Forrest C. Donnell said today the lynching of Cleo Wright, a Negro, at Sikeston "should be investigated to the limit and every possible effort must be made to bring to justice all who took any part in this cruel violence."

The governor said he had assured Scott county prosecutor David Blanton "of every cooperation and told him I would gladly furnish him the assistance of the attorney general's office if he desired it."

Blanton had not yet made request for legal assistance, however, the governor added.

Donnell called the lynching a "disgraceful blot on the state of Missouri," and urged indictment of every person who "had any part, whether great or small, in this mob violence."

Yancey recently completed a seven-year enlistment in the United States Army.

The men will go to Jefferson City for further transportation to St. Louis, where they will undergo an examination. If successful in passing they will then be sent to a naval training station.

It was announced today by the Navy Department that young men between the ages of 17 and 20 may be accepted for enlistment while attending school and be released to inactive duty pending completion of their present school year.

Call For Food To Beat Hitler

line with other prices might prove disastrous.

He held, however, that there was a "perfectly practical and obvious reason" for stipulating that no price ceilings should be imposed on farm products at strict parity. Price control legislation now pending before Congress would permit no ceilings at less than 110 percent of parity.

"If ceilings were placed exactly at parity," he said, "the daily fluctuations in the market would necessarily all be between parity and some lower figure, and as a result, farmers could not possibly average parity."

Wickard said many farmers remembered the surpluses and farm price collapse that followed the first World War and feared a similar aftermath for the present conflict.

He said that they should recognize that the situation was different now. In the first place, it is a case of having to produce abundantly to help defeat Hitler, or run the risk of losing everything, he said.

In the second place, he continued, the national farm program, "is strong enough to meet the strains of the new post-war period, and to keep the production program well in hand."

Goals In Missouri

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 26.—(P)—Increased production goals, some up as much as 50 percent, have been set for Missouri farmers cooperating with the Farm Security Administration in a new war-time program.

Government loans at 5 percent interest will be available for farmers who need additional capital to participate. The program is designed to increase production of protein foods and non-perishable products.

The goals, announced by Stephen C. Hughes of Columbia, state FSA director, after a two-day meeting of FSA officials are: Northern Missouri counties—Poultry, 50 percent; hogs, 25 percent; dairy, 40 pounds of butterfat per cow; sheep, 15 percent for experienced operators.

Ozark area—Poultry, 50 percent; hogs, 25 percent; dairy, 40 pounds of butterfat per cow; sheep, 20 percent for experienced operators; sorghum, approximately one acre for use in producing sorghum for sale; truck crops, 25 percent where markets and labor are available.

Delta area—Poultry, 40 percent; dairy, at least two cows for home production; soybeans, 25 percent.

British Fall Further Back

SINGAPORE, Jan. 26.—(P)—Pounded for days by Japanese forces on the ground and in the air, British imperial forces have surrendered Batu Pahat, western anchor of their Malayan defense line 60 miles from Singapore, and have fallen back to new positions to the south, British headquarters announced today.

The communique announcing the withdrawal indicated there had been no important change elsewhere on the irregular 80 to 90-mile front along which the British, Australian and Indian defenders of Singapore are deployed. Sharp fighting was reported continuing in the vicinity of Kluang, which is situated 50 miles north of here on the Central Malayan railway down which the Japanese have been trying to drive toward this vital naval base.

Little pressure, however, apparently was being exerted by the Japanese on the British right flank, where intermittent artillery fire was said to be holding the invaders to the north bank of the Mersing river, 65 miles from Singapore.

Demands Advanced For Expulsion of Any 'Incompetent'

the answer be asked a question whether General Short and Admiral Kimmel would continue to draw pay and hold rank.

Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the House Military committee commented: "The warnings should have been enough to put those two gentlemen on the alert, yet they apparently failed to collaborate. I don't think they should be excused."

Rep. Short (R-Mo.), another committee member, said "Someone was certainly asleep in Hawaii" and added: "Those that were should not only be relieved of their commands—they should be court martialled. It is high time we are getting rid of these incompetents, not only in the military branches but in all the defense agencies."

Senator George (D-Ga.), a member of the Foreign Relations committee, suggested that the military and naval committees of House and Senate consider whether the commission findings warranted changes in the nation's military organization.

The investigating commission found that 10½ months before the attack—on January 24, 1941—Secretary Knox suggested in a letter to Secretary Stimson that war with the Japanese might come and that the first move would be a "surprise attack on the fleet or naval base at Pearl Harbor."

The commission's report related that Knox's letter was forwarded to Kimmel and Short with orders to make preparations jointly. Additional messages emphasizing the peril of the Japanese situation, it continued, were sent to Kimmel or Short on October 16, November 24, November 27, December 3, December 4 and December 6.

Calling All Cars

The owner or operator of an automobile, a truck or a motorcycle using the public highways must have affixed to his motor vehicle not later than February 1, 1942, a Federal use tax stamp. Failure to do so makes such owner or operator liable to the penalty provided by law.

Stamps are now on sale at any post office or office of collector of internal revenue at a cost of $2.09 for the five months period ending June 30, 1942.

Avoid the rush and the penalty by purchasing your stamp at once.

MTS Glovers Meet Local Team Tuesday

'Y' Gym Scene Of Second Trial Bouts Of Golden Glovers

Fourteen bouts have been scheduled for the second Golden Glove trial bouts to be staged Tuesday night in the "Y" gym when the Sedalia aggregation meets the battlers from the Missouri Training school at Booneville. The fights will start at 8:15 o'clock.

Major R. J. T. Carter, of the school, notified the local officials he was bringing to Sedalia fourteen boxers from Booneville. The school recently completed an inter-school tournament for the purpose of selecting two teams to enter the Central Missouri Golden Glove tournament sponsored by the Democrat-Capital.

Sedalia's Work Hard

Coach Hallahan who has been laboring night and day with more than twenty local boxers is confident he will have several winners among the tournament champions this year. Hallahan is taking each boy and working him through the steady grind of the Y gym training.

Slated on the card Tuesday will be one flyweight bout; one bantam-weight contest, three feather-weight fights; two light-weight battles; four welter-weight fights; one middleweight, and one heavyweight fight. The fighters from Sedalia's stable will be announced just before the matches after all weigh-in reports are completed.

Make Good Showing

In the first show held this year the Sedalia boxers produced some interesting bouts, all of which were pleasing to the fight followers. Not one bout was considered a bad match and all boys were as evenly matched as any fights ever held in a Sedalia ring.

The fact that Booneville's team is practically a novice group the same as the local team, matches this week are expected to be on a par with those of the previous week.

Over 1212 Enroll In Civilian Defense

While extreme advances were shaded in some cases at the close, and minus signs continued to cling to a number of issues, the trend generally was upward. The list displayed improved inclinations at the start.

Dealings quickened at intervals and, notwithstanding slowdowns after midday, transfers for the full proceedings approximated 600,000 shares.

Need Books In Camp Libraries

When soldiers want recreation, they don't go for a hike. Instead, many of them seem to be heading for the nearest library, to take out a book for a few hours of "at ease." Camp libraries report a serious shortage of good books—one shortage everyone is being asked to help remedy.

In an effort to provide soldiers, sailors, and marines with material for leisure hours, the United Service Organizations, the American Red Cross, and the American Library Association are cooperating in a Victory Book Campaign, which slid off the gangway January 12.

Modern best sellers—the same books everyone at home is reading about—are of course most in demand at the various army posts, camps, stations, bases, and hospitals where the books will be distributed. To supply the demand, about 25,000 volumes will be needed in each camp.

Technical books are wanted by the mechanized army of today. Engineering, mechanics, and navigation are important branches of the "army on wheels," and textbooks, handbooks, and dictionaries on the special subjects are very welcome.

Soldiers don't read books about war much—they prefer poetry, biography, fiction, or something about current affairs like Shirer's "Berlin Diary" and "Meet the South Americans" by Carl Crow. Even Hitler's "Mein Kampf" is being read, perhaps as a substitute for the Big Bad Wolf.

Just remember, soldiers are no different from the boys at home. What bores you to tears might not interest a tired trainee, either; and what keeps you up late at night reading will more than

Fight To Carry Out A Dying Wish

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 26.—(AP)—The body of Judge Joseph Franklin Rutherford lay in a mortuary today, nearly three weeks after his death, while Jehovah's Witnesses made a final plea for permission to bury their leader in accordance with his dying wish.

Rutherford, 72, died January 8, asking a simple burial at dawn the following day in an orange grove at Beth Sarim, the estate he kept ready for the resurrection of Biblical prophets.

Frustrated by county health authorities and the planning commission, who held that the estate was not a legally zoned cemetery, the international religious organization carried its fight to the board of county supervisors.

Witnesses charged that prejudice had caused authorities to refuse to waive the zoning law.

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. If you go to a reception should you get off in a corner and talk to one person, or try to speak to a number of people?
2. May the refreshments at a large reception be nothing more than tea or punch and cookies?
3. Is it good manners to look disapprovingly at a guest you don't think is behaving with as much dignity as one his age should?
4. If a girl is introduced to a soldier at a dance, should she feel he is presumptuous if he asks her for a date?
5. Should a soldier feel he can neglect to write thank you letters for gifts sent him because he is busy?

What would you do if—
 You meet a young man who is a soldier and get to talking to him—

- (a) Ask him if he volunteered or was drafted?
- (b) Feel that asking a man, if he volunteered is asking a personal question and so avoid it?

 1. If you want to talk at length to one guest, arrange to see him at some later time.
 2. Yes.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 26.—(AP)—St. Louis and Springfield have been selected again as sites for the state high school basketball championship tournaments which will be held March 12, 13 and 14.

The Winners Last Year
 St. Joseph's Benton won the Class A championship in the state final here last year and Camden topped the Class B title at Springfield.

Assignments to various regional events which are to be completed in the week ending February 28 were made by the Missouri State High School Athletic Association during conferences here Saturday and Sunday.

May Drop Game During War

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP)—New York University's none too robust football team, winner of but four games in its last 18 starts, cost the school $65,000 the past two seasons.

Dr. Mal Stevens, the former Yale coach who took over the NYU job in 1934, told newsmen it was this deficit that might prompt the 32-man university council to drop the sport at its regular monthly meeting late today.

"Football hasn't shown a profit at New York University since 1939 and that year we profited by only $4,000. In 1940 we lost $30,000 and in 1941 the deficit was $35,000. Under those conditions continuing the sport would be difficult," Stevens explained.

The council, controlling body of the school that lists a total enrollment of more than 35,000 and is the nation's largest, receives the report of its committee on health and athletics today.

It is believed the committee will recommend the dropping of football, at least for the duration of the war.

Back To Saddle On The Range

BEND, Ore., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Tire and truck rationing slowly crippled modern, motorized ranches, its bringing a return to the hard-riding days of the old west, when cattlemen drove white-faced steers hundreds of miles to railheads at old-time cowtowns.

Yes, the war is forcing cattlemen to abandon modern trucks and return to the saddle.

Some are planning to send big herds this fall over the long rimrock and sage-brush trails of this high desert region which has seen no large drives since Detroit began building trucks that could follow cattle up mountain sides. Huge sections of Oregon have no transportation except the horse and automobile.

Railroad towns now grown into small, modern cities, may take on the fact of the old west again as cowboys race into town. The range waddy, unlike the motorized ranchhand, is still the same breed that pioneered in the west, hard-working and soft-spoken, but a terror when he reaches town at the end of a long drive.

• The Washington Merry-go-Round

• by Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—Recently, Democratic National Chairman Ed Flynn, Democratic National Treasurer Dick Reynolds and several other high Democratic officers had a private talk with the president on the sad state of the party's finances.

They told him that the Democratic National Committee was over $600,000 in debt, from the 1940 third-term campaign, and was continuing to go deeper in the red at the rate of $5,000 a month. Also, that while he was lulling Democrats with soothing talk about political unity, the Republicans were quietly raising a big war chest and building up their fences in preparation for waging a slashing election battle this fall to capture control of Congress.

The Democratic chiefs asked permission to stage a Jackson Day dinner in Washington to help replenish the party's empty coffers.

In recent years, with a cover charge of $100 a plate, this traditional affair has been an important fund raiser. As much as $100,000 has been netted at one dinner. But last year, after nearly 1,000 tickets had been sold, Roosevelt ordered the dinner cancelled as a gesture of political unity.

Despite the urgent pleas of his political leaders, the president again turned thumbs down on a Jackson Day banquet this year.

But he didn't turn them away entirely empty handed. To their request he offered a counter proposal—a series of private dinners where the party's affairs would be discussed and contributions solicited.

"I'll contribute $1,000 myself," he beamed. NOTE: During the discussion, plain-talking Treasurer Reynolds remarked, "This town is so cluttered up with Republican dollar-a-year men that a good Democrat can't get a job any more. The one way not to get a job around here is to admit you're a Democrat."

Bi-Party Dinner
The president's plan for private dinners did not bring cheers from the party chiefs. Whereupon he produced two other suggestions. One was that the Democrats and Republicans merge their Jackson Day and Lincoln Day dinners and hold a joint banquet, the proceeds to be divided equally between them. The other proposal was that the national committee of both parties be financed by an appropriation by Congress.

The president's argument for this was that with the country at war it would be in the interest of national security to put the staffs of both national committees on the government payroll so that the two parties would not have to solicit funds from sources that might have a personal interest in the outcome of the forthcoming congressional elections.

Neither of the president's proposals got anywhere.

The Democratic leaders turned down the second as impractical. The Republicans declined to have anything to do with the first, the joint dinner plan.

They are making plans for a big Lincoln Day rally to be held in Chicago, where the martyred president was first nominated. GOP bigwigs from all over the country will attend, and the occasion will be the opening salvo in the party's political offensive this year.

NOTE: Despite the president's ban on a Jackson Day dinner in Washington, Democratic organizations in some states will hold their own. Prominent among them is Iowa, where Democratic National Committeeman Frank Comfort, State Chairman Jake More and ex-Governor Nels Kraschel insisted on a dinner on the ground that the GOP has not adjourned politics and they saw no reason why the Democrats should "cut their own throats."

General Knudsen
In moving over to the War Department as a spanking new lieutenant general, William Knudsen was given the ornate office of the secretary of war—which Secretary Stimson has refused to use. Stimson has insisted on remaining in the plain, rough-and-ready room he occupies in the nearby Munitions Building.

But while assigned to the elaborate secretarial suite, Knudsen also doesn't plan to spend much time there.

The first day he set up shop there, several army chiefs dropped in and asked about his plans for an office force.

"There's my office force," said Knudsen with a big grin, pointing to a travelling bag. "I'm going to be out on the road, looking over plants and keeping things moving. That's my job and I won't need an office force for that."

NOTE: In leaving OPM, Knudsen paid a high tribute to his former associate director, Sidney Hillman. "Sidney is a top man," Knudsen said. "He is not only a good labor executive, he is also a good business man. He's got a good head on him. I never worked with a better fellow."

Pal Joey
Behind the scenes, one man who played a very influential part in swinging Pan-American delegates into line at the Rio conference was none other than Joe Stalin.

He was not present and his name was not mentioned but the Soviet boss played second fiddle only to the dynamic diplomacy of Os-Waldo Aranha and the persuasiveness of Sumner Welles.

How tough it was to line up some of the countries is illustrated by Peru, whose foreign minister at the last minute backed away from breaking relations with the axis. Peru has a long Pacific coastline to defend and is worried over Japanese raiders. So finally Aranha and Welles put the squeeze on Peruvian Foreign Minister Solf Y. Muro, who is part German and secretly sympathetic with Franco.

They summoned Solf together with Peruvian Ambassador Prado, who is the brother of the Peruvian president. Ambassador Prado is strongly anti-axis and the two Peruvians had a row in front of Welles and Aranha. Finally, Prado, being the brother of the president, prevailed and it was agreed that Peru should break diplomatic relations. Helping to clinch the argument was a promise from Welles that the United States would protect Peru's Pacific coast.

Exhausted from the long argument, Welles left. As soon as the door closed behind him, Solf remarked, "Yes, and they, also promised to protect the Philippines."

However, despite this crack, the two chief factors that convinced the delegates that Hitler could not win were: U. S. participation in the war and the continuing victories of the Russian armies. These were tangible realities that counted potentially in the final agreement.

Thus without Stalin's military might, U. S. diplomacy might have been much less productive.

Merry-Go-Round

Shortly before the House voted down a bill to facilitate the filing of claims against the government by Cherokee Indians, husky Rep. Usher Burdick of North Dakota, a backer of the measure, brought a roar of laughter with this wisecrack: "There are more Indian fighters in Congress than were with Custer at the battle of Little Big Horn". . . . Battling young Congressman Clyde Ellis of Arkansas is taking bows from Rural Electrification officials for his effective efforts in helping put over that Defense Plant Corporation contract under which the REA will supply 32,500 kwh of power for the government's aluminum plant being built at Lake Catherine, Ark. Ellis fought the combined forces of Arkansas private utilities and Defense Plant Chairman Jesse Jones, but won out when he threatened to take the issue to the floor.

From American Hearts

Who doubts the determination of the American people, has not seen them offering the literal blood of their hearts to safeguard as best they may the lives of the soldiers and sailors who go out to risk death for their sake.

In response to an urgent call from the Army and Navy for blood plasma, 200,000 Americans are stepping quietly forward to offer that blood. The American Red Cross is receiving the donations of blood, and taking care of its processing into dried plasma, shipping it then to army posts, ships and first aid stations where it may save lives.

It is not a desperate or heroic action, this giving of a pint of blood; yet blood is life, and who gives blood thus gives a little tithe, perhaps, of his own life to save that of another. Literally from the beating heart of America comes this offering, freely and undramatically given.

Have you forgotten what America means? Go to one of these Red Cross stations for the receipt of blood donations, and watch the people come, quietly, with suppressed eagerness hidden beneath an outer layer of deprecation, lest they be caught looking melodramatic.

Here is an old and frail-looking lady, seeming 10 years past the allowed limit of 60. Is it a son or even a grandson she sees bleeding out his life for lack of the plasma that might save it?

Here is a skinny, drugstore sort of youth, the kind you would have sworn yesterday had never had a serious thought. Yet he is here, and tomorrow when they ask him about it at the drug store he will back away with a deprecating "A-a-aw! It ain't anything!" But he is here.

Here is a slender young woman, her eyes too bright, her cheeks too rouged, her fingernails to scarlet, her dress and manner suggesting that even in her youth she has seen things better left unseen. Yet she is here. Has not she too a heart, and does it not beat with American blood?

Here is a shapeless woman with great red hands. She speaks not a word of English. But her blood, gushing through the tube into the glass receptacle, speaks eloquently enough.

Here is a brawn truck driver, casual in his second gift of blood; a fat and rosy woman; an embarrassed salesman of neckties; a young man already wearing the uniform of his country; rich man, poor man, beggarman, they come.

Little enough they had in common, these strangely assorted people; they might never have met, never have known the others existed. Yet they have come together to open their veins into a common life-giving pool.

They have something in common after all, these people. It is America.

Here they found that their own innermost hearts are part of the great throbbing, beating heart of America.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Love" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 1, 1942.

Golden Text: I John 4:16. We have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him. Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "... love ye your enemies, and do good, and lend, hoping for nothing again; and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be the children of the Highest: for he is kind unto the unthankful and to the evil" (Luke 6:35).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When we realize that there is one Mind, the divine law of loving our neighbor as ourselves is unfolded; whereas a belief in many ruling minds hinders man's natural drift towards the one Mind, one God, and leads human thought into opposite channels where selfishness reigns" (p. 205).

See Me Make PERFECT HOT STARCH IN BARELY A MINUTE!

AT THE DEMOCRAT-CAPITAL COOKING SCHOOL

MEASURE OUT A SPOONFUL OF THIS READY-PREPARED FAULTLESS STARCH

ADD A LITTLE COLD WATER AND STIR UNTIL SMOOTH AND CREAMY

THEN ADD BOILING WATER WHILE STIRRING...YOUR HOT STARCH IS READY TO USE!

MRS. GEO. THURN

Compare This Method with 20 Minutes of Messy Cooking

I'll demonstrate at the Cooking School—and prove how you, too, can make perfect hot starch—the Faultless way—in barely a minute! Only 3 quick, short steps...and presto!...your perfectly mixed hot starch is ready—without cooking!

EASY TO BECOME A BEAUTIFUL IRONER!
Further, I'll show how Faultless Starch helps you become a beautiful ironer...the very first time you try it!

You see, Faultless Starch is already prepared. It is specially prepared to measure out as easily and accurately as baking powder—to dissolve without specks or lumps to "stick" to your iron—to make your iron slide easily. There is nothing to add to prepared Faultless Starch.

You'll find Faultless Starch penetrates fabrics deeply. It does not blow out or freeze out on the line. Try Faultless Starch, and I believe you'll find washing clothes is easier. Dirt does not grind in so easily when the fabric is filled with deep-penetrating Faultless Starch. Try Faultless Starch on all wash clothes, linens, curtains, laces and all cotton fabrics you prize.

Serial Story . . .

Tambay Gold

By Samuel Hopkins Adams

Copyright 1941, NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Mom Baumer sets up "Feederia" lunch wagon at run-down Tambay Plantation, forms tourist camp partnership with its aristocratic, impoverished owner, Jane Ann Judson, last of the Mauries and squired on the world. Mom tells Juddy she has a daughter, Juddy tells Mom of a lonely childhood. Other characters: Loren Oliver, Welliver, a prof digging for Indian relics at Tambay and harboring Old Swoby, a Slovene refugee; Dolf, Mom's pet skunk; lawyer Maurice Sears and football star Angel Todd, both in love with Juddy. Sheriff Hollister Mowry thinks Oliver after gold. Juddy is ill after mob lynching at Hanging Tree, tells Maurice Sears she'll leave Tambay never to return if he happens again. She gets letter from Henderson Kent, wealthy husband from whom she is separated. Tourist camp business picks up.

ANGEL'S FISTS FLY

MONEY is bad for my system. I'm not used to it in big gobs, and it goes to my head like liquor. Juddy is no better. Both of us were suffering from financial delusions of grandeur.

Besides what we were taking in, each of us had a little of our original capital left—Juddy in the bank, me in the sock. Nothing would do us but we had to make our dream of the big central dinery and dance floor come true. Well, before we knew it, the old place was full of high-priced carpentry noises. No hillbilly labor this time. Costs began to pile up so fast that we were afraid to look at our weekly sheets.

"Let's face it, pal," I said. "I know it's worse than we thought it would be, but how much have we let ourselves in for?"

Juddy bit the end off of her pencil. "Well, say six thousand, minimum."

"You say it," I said. "I'd choke." "What'll we do now?"

"I had one of my brilliant flashes. 'What's a bank for?' I said. 'We can take our books down to La Rue at the Levert National.'"

So we put it up to Maurice Sears. He didn't seem too taken with the notion, and his report was a sock. "It looks to me like Hollister Mowry is blocking it," he said. "What's his idea?" I said.

"You know he's got the gold fever, don't you? He'll be after those diggings as soon as the Welliver lease is up."

When we were back in the car, Juddy said:

"Any other ideas, Mom?"

"The only thing I can think of is for you to marry a millionaire," I said.

"I did," she said. "Look what it got me."

"There's others and maybe different," I said.

SHE took a long time before she answered. "I could always go back to Hendy."

That was a surprise. "Have you still got a yen for him?"

She shook her head. "No, but I never was cut out for being poor. Every morning when I wake up and look at Tambay Mansion I call myself a fool for living this way any longer. By evening, I'm loving the place so that I can't bear to think of leaving it. It's Tambay against Hendy. Tambay and you and—"

"Angel?" I said.

She gave me that queer, slanted look again.

"Angel wouldn't be any help to the payroll," I said. "We've got to be practical. I'll let the crew go as soon as the floor is done."

At that, it didn't work out so badly. We had a swell dance floor that brought in a nice additional piece of cash every pleasant weekend.

It was nearly a month before we saw Angel again. He stopped in late Friday evening. The first thing he said was:

"Where's Juddy?"

"Gone to bed."

"That's a devil of a note," he said. He sat down and started ordering everything on the menu.

"Hey!" I said. "What's the answer? Have you broken training?" I could tell by his breath that he had.

"Just for once," he said. After he'd eaten he said, "I want to see little Juddy."

"No, you don't. Not in your condition. You wouldn't do yourself a bit of good with her."

"Then let's pry Oliver out. I've got some things to settle with that rat."

"Listen, Angel," I said. "You beat it for Welliver. You don't want to get yourself in wrong. Come back in the morning."

Sometimes I'm just a plain sucker. I thought I had him fixed. So I closed the shop and hit the hay.

A tattoo on my window woke me up. It was a thick, foggy night, but the dim figure in the yard couldn't be anybody but Angel; it was too big.

"Let me in, will you, Mom?"

"I thought I told you to go home."

"I tried. The car's gone floozy."

"Get along. Thumb yourself a ride," I said.

"Nobody'll take me. You wouldn't blame 'em if you could see me."

ANGEL was a picture. One of his eyes was closing. There was a smear above his cheekbone and below it the flesh was pulpy.

Across his chin ran a gash. His right ear was mottled with blood.

"My God!" I said. "What did you tangle with? A truck?"

Juddy showed up at the stairhead. "What is it?" she said. Then, "Angel!"

"Hello, sweetie. Come and view the ruins."

She ran down. "You're hurt! Was it a collision?"

He managed a smile in spite of a bulge in his upper lip that would be called a salient on a war-map. "Just a little argument," he said.

"Get my first aid kit, Juddy," I said. "Keep your finger out of that eye, Angel. Where's the other guy?"

"In the river-bed, I guess," he said. "You can have him, Mom."

"What would I want of him?"

"Well, he's a friend of yours," he said.

I stopped the work. "Why, you big heel!" I said. "Not Doc Oliver!"

"Parfetty-mah, as we say in French class."

"That's fine," I said. "That's swell. That's my big, brave lad."

I was good and sore.

"Well, he hit me first," he said. "You're a liar. What would he do that for?"

"Don't, Mom," Juddy put in. What did happen, Angel?"

"When the old car pooped out on me, I wasn't feeling too good. It kind of came into my head to tell Loren Oliver just what I thought of him, with illustrations. I piped him out of his stockade, but we didn't get very far with the conversation."

By this time I'd finished my patchwork, and told him so. Juddy said, "Take my car and go back, Angel."

He didn't even try to stall. "I guess I'm in plenty of trouble," he said.

We got a flash and started our hunt. It didn't take long to locate Doc. He was in the stream bottom, leaning against a boulder.

"Good evening," he said. There wasn't much gimp in his voice. I hated to turn the light on him, for fear of what I was going to see.

It wasn't like that at all. Not a mark on him except one slight bump, low on the jaw. But he was a mass of mud, and his eyes blinked as if he was half awake.

"Are you all right?" she said. "Quite, thank you," he said, and straightened up. But he'd have flopped, sure, if she hadn't caught him on one side just as I got to him on the other.

"Ribs?" I said.

"I'll be all right," he said. (To Be Continued)

Ecuador Pledges Aid, Co-operation With U. S.

AS war halts much of the U. S. trade with the Far East it becomes increasingly apparent that South America will furnish a great part of American imports. One of those nations friendly to the U. S., a nation that has pledged full aid and co-operation in hemispheric solidarity and trade exchange, is Ecuador. The stamp above, issued in 1940, pictures an Ecuadorian farmer plowing the fertile fields where some U. S. imports are grown. United States buys cocoa, coffee, crude rubber, fibrous plants from whose leaves "Panama Hats" are made, from Ecuador and will probably import more rubber as plantations are more fully developed. The nation's proximity to the Panama Canal bring it into the scope of the hemispheric defense plans; airplane bases are contemplated for strategic points there. There is a possibility that petroleum and petroleum refining, which ranks seventh in the nation's productivity, may be further developed to provide the oil for the Allied war machines.

Japan Gains Base In Sarawak Invasion

JAPANESE occupation of Sarawak gained a military base for operations against the Netherlands Indies but little in actual territorial or economic value. The stamp above, issued in 1918, bears a portrait of Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, rajah, of the territory since 1917. In 1940, Rajah Muda Hassim, uncle and heir presumptive of the Sultan of Brunei, of which Sarawak was formerly a part, prevailed upon James Brooke, an English officer, to aid in suppressing a native rebellion. In return for his help, the sultan ceded Sarawak to Brooke, who became rajah the following year.

The British government recognized Sarawak as an independent state in 1863 and in 1888 concluded a treaty which made the state a protectorate, although internal affairs were solely in the hands of Brooke and his administrative aides. Sir James was succeeded by his nephew, Sir Charles Johnson Brooke, who was followed by Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, present rajah. Principal mineral wealth is the oil field at Miri, in the north, where a European oil corporation maintained more than 5000 employees. Recent advices from Sarawak stated that the wells would be destroyed before they fell into Jap hands.

Grain To Highest Since In 1937

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Highest prices since 1937 were posted in the grain and soybean futures pits here today as the market continued its war-inspired push. Beans were the highest on record, oats the highest in 14 years.

Soybeans, up as much as 4 cents to above $2.04, led the advance. Corn and rye were up about 2 cents at times, wheat a cent and oats fractions.

Late profit taking reduced the maximum gains in all pits but wheat closed 1/4 to 1/2 cent higher than Saturday. May $1.33 1/4 to $1.33 1/2, July $1.34 1/4, corn 1/2 to 3/4 cent higher.

May 90 1/2 to 90 3/4; July 92 1/4 to 92 3/4; oats unchanged to 1/4 cent up; rye 2 to 2 1/2 cents higher, May 91 1/2 to 91 3/4; soybeans 1 1/4 to 3 3/4 cents higher, May $2.01 1/4.

Holiday Like Excitement In Completing Democrat-Capital's Stage Kitchen

that are more than mere exhibits. Here is found a working plan for the efficient household administrator, which is bound to simplify her daily routine—and future shopping trips.

What about that gift parade? The cooperating firms are doing more than furnishing useful products and labor-saving equipment which the daily crowds of homemakers will watch in actual use. They are offering many splendid gifts in daily and final awards.

The "First Lady of the Cooking School," Mrs. George Thurn, is a good organizer as well as a good mixer. Already she is on the job, supervising the final rush of preparation, inspecting equipment and supplies in her open-to-the-public kitchen. In spite of constant traveling and demonstration work in changing surroundings, Mrs. Thurn must be even more accurate and painstaking than the individual housekeeper, for a presiding homemaker cannot interrupt her program to run next door for a cup of sugar.

When the opening bell sounds at 1:30 p. m., the fascinating stage kitchen will be in apple-pie order, the refrigerator will be stocked with foods—from milk to colorful garnishes, the stove will be ready to turn on the heat and the cupboard will be well filled with quality food products. It looks like a real party for the guest homemakers, especially for the proud "pupils" who carry home the tempting demonstration treats cooked in this model kitchen.

Join your neighbors at The Democrat-Capital's popular Cooking School tomorrow. The doors of The Liberty Theatre will be open one hour in advance of the session, which will start daily at 1:30 o'clock.
